For almost 120 years now, Beckermann has been reputed for manufacturing customised kitchens tailored to customer wishes.

Following a complete refurbishment of production and the major investment during recent years, Beckermann presents itself with predominately fully automatic production, designed in particular for flexible made-to-measure manufacture of kitchen furniture. This is supplemented by a brand-new, state-of-the-art painting line, which is fully integrated in the production process and takes account of the general trend towards greater individuality of colour.

The result:

Kitchens perfectly adapted to customer requirements in terms of form, width, height, front division, depth, colour, equipment and material. All in first-rate quality and at an astonishingly favourable price!

At this year's LivingKitchen, Beckermann is proving that made-to-measure kitchens are not niche products and instead part of the current and future daily business of a qualified kitchen planner.

Wood meets glass

Modern, but not cold – homely, but not plain: Beckermann offers a combination of high-impact acrylic glass from the market leader Evonik and homely wooden elements that create a unique kitchen image.
